

MODERN SLAVERY STATEMENT

This statement is made pursuant to Section 54 of the Modern Slavery Act 2015 of the Parliament of the United Kingdom (the “Act”). It sets out the steps TripAdvisor LLC, TripAdvisor Limited and Viator Inc. (collectively, “TripAdvisor”) have taken to prevent acts of modern slavery and human trafficking from occurring in its business and supply chain up to and during the financial year ended 30 June 2017.

Introduction

TripAdvisor is an online travel company, empowering users to plan and book the perfect trip. TripAdvisor’s travel platform aggregates reviews and opinions of members about destinations, accommodations, activities and attractions, and restaurants throughout the world so that our users have access to trusted advice wherever their trips take them. Our platform helps users plan their trips with our unique user-generated content and enables users to compare real-time pricing and availability so that they can book hotels, flights, cruises, vacation rentals, activities and attractions, and restaurant reservations. In addition, we help our advertising and business partners in the travel industry reach a large audience of travelers around the world. For more information about company, please visit our corporate website at <https://tripadvisor.mediaroom.com/us-about-us>; to learn more about our financial and operational as well as please visit our Investors page at <http://ir.tripadvisor.com/>.

At TripAdvisor, we are committed to operating in a responsible and ethical manner. We recognise that slavery, servitude, forced and compulsory labour, and human trafficking (also known as “Modern Slavery”) are serious crimes and global human rights issues, and we take seriously our responsibility to comply with the Act and to assist in preventing and combating Modern Slavery.

This statement includes a description of our efforts over the past financial year to identify and mitigate the risk of Modern Slavery in our business and supply chain, and the policies and processes we have in place to report non-compliance.

Our Approach

TripAdvisor is committed to acting ethically and with integrity in all of its business relationships.

Modern Slavery is complex and we believe strongly that working together with others to identify risks and best practice will be the most effective way to bring change in this area. In line with this, we are part of a number of industry forums and working groups and have signed the Private Sector Commitment to the United Nations World Tourism Organization (“UNWTO”) Global Code of Ethics for Tourism. This Code of Ethics is a comprehensive set of principles designed to guide key-players in tourism development.

We ask our business partners, vendors, suppliers and clients to confirm in our agreements with them that they comply with all applicable laws and regulations, which include those laws and regulations that relate to Modern Slavery.

We have a number of policies and processes that form part of our approach to ethics, human rights and Modern Slavery. These include our Code of Business Conduct and Ethics (the “Code”) that requires all directors, officers, employees, contractors and consultants to uphold high standards of honest, lawful and ethical conduct. The Code requires such persons to report any violations confidentially to our Compliance Team. Through both the Code and our Whistleblower Policy, we prohibit any retaliation against those who make good-faith reports of concerns about the lawfulness of any of our business practices, or breaches of the Code. In addition, to ensure that our employees are not subject to undue influence and are treated fairly and with respect, TripAdvisor has human resource policies and procedures, as well as recruitment process and training, in place across all of our operations.

During new hire orientation and training, all recently hired employees receive a copy of the Code and receive training on the Code as well as certain human resource policies and procedures. Each year, our employees are required to certify that they have reviewed the Code and other key policies.

Looking Ahead

In the financial year ahead, we will continue to further improve our practices and processes to help combat Modern Slavery.
