In addition to the flagship Tripadvisor brand, we manage and operate 20 other travel media brands.

Tripadvisor’s UK tax policy is comprised of the following key components:

Tax Planning
We consider, among other factors, the impact of planning decisions on our reputation with our wider stakeholders. Tripadvisor does not undertake any tax planning which does not have genuine economic or commercial substance. Where available to us, we will look to take advantage of tax incentives and exemptions implemented by governments and fiscal authorities in order to support investment, employment, and economic development.

Relationship with HMRC
Tripadvisor seeks to have a transparent and constructive relationship with HM Revenue and Customs (HMRC) through regular meetings and communication. Tripadvisor will endeavor to keep HMRC aware of significant transactions and changes in the business at an early stage. Tripadvisor shall comply with its legal obligations and interpret legislation in a reasonable way that is aligned with the intentions of Parliament. Where genuine differences of opinion occur on the application of tax law, Tripadvisor will first seek to resolve these with the HMRC through open dialogue and with reference to the relevant legislation and case law. We are however prepared to litigate where we disagree with a ruling or decision of a tax authority.

Tax Risk Management and Governance
Tripadvisor’s intention is to minimize the level of risk in relation to UK taxation at all times. Tax planning advice is only sought to ensure compliance with tax law.

We follow Tripadvisor’s risk management system as part of our internal control processes. Tripadvisor identifies, assesses and manages tax risks and accounts for them appropriately. We implement risk management measures including controls over compliance processes and monitor their effectiveness. We report on a periodic basis to the Audit Committee on how tax risks are managed, monitored and assured and on improvements that are being made. In this way, the Audit Committee provides governance and oversight of tax risks.

Tripadvisor’s head of tax owns and implements our approach to tax, which is approved by the Board of Directors. Tripadvisor’s head of tax is also responsible for ensuring that policies and procedures that support the approach are in place, maintained and used consistently around the world and that the global team has the skills and experience to implement the approach appropriately. This tax policy is in line with our global Code of Business Conduct and Ethics which requires Tripadvisor to be a good corporate citizen and all employees to be honest and conduct yourselves in accordance with the highest ethical, professional and legal standards. Complying with the law is the foundation on which our ethical standards are built.
